INSTRUCTOR: LARS AGERSTRAND

Lars Ågerstrand is a battalion chief for Värnamo Fire & Rescue Service in Sweden. He is responsible for fire operations, and the training of firefighters and instructors in the region. Lars has travelled and participated in training and other events all over the world, to both teach and to learn about firefighting. Lars is a speaker at both FDIC and Firehouse World, and a subject matter expert in several international projects to develop the training of firefighters. His approach to firefighting is that it has to be based on a scientific foundation, but with a practical approach that suits the environment firefighters work in. The actions firefighters take should be effective and efficient to accomplish a rescue, save property and to maintain a safe working environment.
